About the webinar

The education of women is the best way to save the environment

E. O. Wilson

The primary unit of a society is women. This is because women make a family, family makes a home, and home makes a society. So, we can never think of the existence of a society without the contribution of women. We all know that without education, no development is possible. In spite of that from time immemorial till today women have been facing lots of difficulty to establish them in society with the equal facilities granted to men. Women have the same power like men, and this truth is already established by Lopamudra, Gargee, Maitreyi, the famous women in the Vedic period. At present, although women have exposed themselves in every sector of Indian society, they are combatting with several constraints day by day to get a space of their own. If we give a short look in higher education sector, the graphical representation indicates the lower presence of women in education. Moreover, women have a lower literacy rate than men. Though at present large number of girls enrolled in the colleges but many of them get dropped out. So, the question is that how we will be able to overcome this situation. There are so many ways proposed by Government especially for women to overcome this situation. But the best way is to instill courage and inspiration into the mind of the young girls to resist any type of social difficulty. And with an object to get success here, a vivid picture should be unveiled in front of them so that they will be able to see the history of the fight of Indian women against different critical social barriers to stamp their footprints on the soil of India. They should realize how in every sector of society women can work parallelly with men. Through illuminating speeches of the eminent resource persons, this webinar will assuredly generate and project rays of light to recall the fight of Indian women to place their footprints in science, social science, history, language, sports, films etc and demonstrate some new ways to our new generation girls so that they can achieve inspiration to overcome all types of restriction of the patriarchal society to establish themselves.
